Yanet is an intern architect with five years of specifications writing experience. She is committed to the projects and clients she's engaged with, providing specifications development and production, enthusiastically researching products and materials, coordinating consultants' specifications, and compiling complete Project Manuals for consistent on-time delivery.

Yanet is a co-founder and board member of the NOMA PDX chapter, founded in 2020, and was instrumental in attracting NOMA's national conference to Portland in 2023, and then helping coordinate that event. As an immigrant and first-generation college student, she's passionate about architecture that supports the well-being of immigrants, first-generation youth, and BIPOC communities.

Yanet manages specifications projects with a focus on higher education, mixed-use multi-family residential projects, K-12 schools, and civic & government facilities, including for renovations, seismic upgrades, historic renovations, and building renovations & expansions.
